Alumni Nite 2013

On a cool breezy moonlit evening, the X Andreon members descended onto the brightly lit quadrangle of the famous 'dugdi school' St. Andrew's School grounds. The festivities kicked off on a positive note, marking the Annual celebrations on January 19, 2014.

Mumbai Police Commissioner Mr. Rakesh Maria and his graceful wife did the honors of being the chief guests. Speaking with conviction, in all humility, he traded with his rapt audience the need for one to doggedly pursue ones' dreams. Belonging to the Class of 1974, being the thorough gentleman, Mr. Rakesh accommodated the repeated requests from his peers and colleagues to pose for memorable photographs.

Midway through the celebrations, the Executive Committee conducted an AGM on the premises:

- Seven attendees volunteered to join the committee.
- Event Anchor Lancy D'souza led a March past in all its purposefulness.
- Spot prizes proved to be a major draw.
- Food stalls perched on the perimeter of the grounds catered to the discerning palates. Delectable dishes comprising of Biryani, chicken tikka and seekh kebab were a humongous hit.
- And as the mixed music tracks resonated on the grounds, the batches of yesteryears pooled in all their resources to shake a leg and dance on the floor.
- DJ Cajetan provided the right blend of dancing and listening music covering a repertoire of old and new melodies.

Mrs. Bonifacia Lobo, current Headmistress Primary Section at St. Andrews School and a proud recipient of the Mayors' award, was honored for her exemplary work.

Prominent members of the X Andreon community were recognized for their continued support in raising the noble values of a remarkable Institution.

As the evening drew to a conscious close, X Andreon students belted out the St. Andrew's Anthem in unison. Taking a trip down memory lane, the ambience strengthened strings of camaraderie, bonding and friendship.

More power to X Andreon Association as it steadfastly continues to forge ahead with well laid plans for future traditional social activity.
